Prof. Muller's Experiments in Newfoundland; Remarkable Results.

Not the least of the triumphs of modern sci entific methods in man's utilization of natural resources is forecast in the briof announcement just received from the Newfoundland whale fisheries to the extent that Prof. Muller has succeeded in domesticating a herd of fifty sulphur-bottom cow whales and has perfected an apparatus for milking them. The yield of milk from a full-grown whale is from five to seven hogsheads a day. The milk is fresh and sweet and peculiarly rich in nutritive and medicinal qualities. It is much thicker and richer than the best Jersey milk and possesses a peculiarly pleasant and distinctive flavor which those who have tasted thetive flavor which those who have tasted it pronounce as superior to any known product of the incteal variety. Chemical analysis has shown that the milk of the sulphur-bottom whate is rich in those same fats and proteids which give to cod-liver oil its value as a rene-flai food.

Frot fuller's experiments with whales, which have been carried on in comparative servers for several years, have resulted in inapprenarkable discoveries in the line of utilizing the different parts of the lugs carcasses which have litherto gone to write.

remarkable discoveries in the line of utilizing the different parts of the huge carcasses which have hitherto gone to wrist.

He has devised a process for curing and preserving the tons of meat which has always been considered worse than valueless. The meat, which compares favorably in texture and flavor with the average beef, will soon to put upon the market. The commany has assurances that it will find ready sale in the West India Islands and other tropical countries which now depend for their meant supply on the South American Jerked beef.

Frof. Muller has invented and patented a process for making leather from the intestines, pleural ance, heart coverings and other internal membranes of the whale, which, when tanned and finished, is of great durability and finer texture than any known teather. Besides its superior quality, the whale jeather furnishes single pieces of much greater dimensions than it is possible to procure from any other animal. It is possible according to the inventor, to obtain from the skin of a full-grown sulphur-bottom whale a strip of leather about 200 feet in length and 25, feet in diameter can be obtained. Processes for grinding the minimum skeletons into home meal for fertilizers, and of leather 25 feet in diameter can be obtained. Processes for grinding the minimum skeletons into home meal for fertilizers, and of converting the grittle and cartilage into give and like products, are among the minimum skeletons of the expect, who has sealuded himself for the last five years at a little fishing village and turned his attention to the study of whales.—Canadian Manufacturer.

THIRTEEN BODIES ARE RECOVERED

Full Extent of the Railway Disaster at Norfolk Now Known.

MANY DAYS MUST PASS BEFORE TRAFFIC IS OPEN

Farmer With an Ax Saved Lives of Thirty-Five People.

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 18.-The removal today of two Atlantic Coast Line cars, which plunged into the open draw at Elizabeth river yesterday afternoon, reyealed but two bodies in the first car, making the number of bodies recovered thirteen, with five persons missing. None of the injured now in the hospital will die, but a majority of them will be sent to their homes in a day or two. The bodies of the dead will be forwarded to their homes tomorrow.

Death List Complete.

Death List Complete.

A careful examination of the bottom of the river showed no more bodies, and the railroad officials are convinced that the death list is now complete, though reports are still current of a much heavier less of life.

All day long the operations of the rescuing and wrecking crews continued. There were reports that in the raising of one of the submerged cars the end of the coach was loosened and bodies were washed back into the stream had floated away with the tide. Later reports, however, denied this story.

Two Coaches Out.

Two Coaches Out.

In reporting to the Atlantic Coast Line officers here. Superintendent Wootten announces that "the two old coaches" had been gotten out, together with four sets of trucks, and that two more dead had been found. These referred to an unknown colored man and an unknown colored woman. Thousands traveled to Bruce's Station today. The work of the civers was impeded by high tide and a stiff gale.

Traffic on the Atlantic Coast Line over this route had been necessarily suspended, and the trains are being brought in by connection with the Scaboard Air Line at Suffolk. Two weeks of forced labor will hardly repair the broken draw.

Farmer's Heroic Work.

Farmer's Heroic Work.

J. J. Thompson, a farmer, displayed considerable heroism when the disaster occurred. He leaped to the second coach, cat a hole in the roof and extricated thirty-five people just before the car became completely submerged. Cleveland Thompson, his son, who was an eye-willness of the disaster, today declared that Engineer Reigs stack to his post and fell from the engine, and that the red danger flag used at the bridge had faded so from leng usage that it was almost white. The draw was open for a tug which, by quickly reversing engines, narrowly escaped being caught by the fulling locomotive and ears.

About three score of 162 excursionists have reached Norfolk. Of these twenty-three are at the hospitals, suffering from their injuries.

MULES ARE PROFITABLE Average Farmer Not Aware of Profit

in Animals. The average farmer is probably not tware of the fact that an average mule sells for $10 a head more than horses. Such is the case, and the price has been gradually rising for a number of years. There has never been what would be called an overproduction of mules, where large farms are devoted entirely to raising cotton; also the farmers of this country flud the mule stands the work in the bot senson in wheat fields much better than the horse. All men that have used mules know this to be a

The mule matures more quickly than the horse, and can be placed on the market from one to two years sooner than the average horse. This means a larger profit to the producers and quicker returns for the investment. A well-fed mule can be worked at 2 years of age with safety, if proper judgment is exercised by the driver. They are much less nervous than a horse, the not so liable to accident or blemish. blemish that would make a fine horse unsalable would take but a trifle from a mule. The mule is less liable to wire a mule. The mule is less liable to wire outs and blemishes for the reason that he is more careful about running into anything than a horse. You will see six or eight horses blemished and scarred from wire where you will see one mule scarred from it.

The mule is a taxpayer and a mort-gage lifter for the farmer; he is ready-sale at weaning time, at one year, two years, or when he is broke to work The mule is ready money at any age. The horse colt does not sell well until it is or 4 years old and broke to work and drive.-Sarcoxie (Mo.) Leader.

A NARROW ESCAPE

Pedro and Shark Played Hide and Seek With One Another. The yellow fover was raging in the city of Vera Cruz that year, and one of the large West Indian liners which arrived large West Indian liners which arrived on a certain day was obliged to anchor off in the harbor. A small boat, known as a diaghy, floated astern, and in this an active young colored boy of about 15 was busily at work washing off the seats. The boat lurched over with a sudden dip as the boy bore his weight on one of the thwarts, and Pedro heard a warning shout from the steamer's deck just in time to give one terrified glance around, and to hear a noise he knew only too well.

and to hear a noise he knew only too well.

Without an instant's hesitation he jumped overboard from the oposite side of the boat. For as he looked he caught sight of the jaws of a great shark which, spying this tempting morael of a plump little darky boy, had leaped toward the careened boat with open mouth. So vigorous was the shark's leap that as Pedro went over on one side of the boat the shark flopped in on the other. Not being used to these surroundings, and missing his prey, he floundered around until his head bore down the gunwale, and he side from the careening boat into the sea again before the neople on the steamer could fling a barpoon at him. Almost as he disnippeared pose Pedro's head popued up on the opposite side of the beat and in a terrible right he clambered into the dinghy again, as thoroughly seared a young darky as ever had a narrow escape. Had he not thus saved himself from the manesater, help from the steamer would have been necessary, and even then it is more than probable that the boy would not have been saved. This is a remarkable instance of the frequency —H. A. Johnson, in St. Nicholas.
